SPLENDID COTTON OUTLOOK IN TEXAS

Plant Throughout Dallas District Is Loaded With New Bolls About Ready to Open.

Fair and Square CROP ESTIMATES INCREASED.

Continuation of Present Favorable Weather Will Insure a Yield From One-Third to One-Fourth Larger Than Was Expected.

as if the average date for the last ten years for "first front" in the Dallas territory-There is no indication to the contrary at this time, and the general opinion among cotton circles inclines to a "late fail."

There was a little flurry of uneasiness last Saturday, when symptoms of a "north-

"were in the air. The mercury was re-orted to have dropped to fifty degrees at Wichits, Kas. and a cold wave was rolling Southward. The fear was that it would invade the northern and central Texas cotinvade the northern and central Texas cot-ton belt, and then the top crop outlook would be "all off." The "norther," however, got lost in the interior of Oklahoma. Sunday morning was the most critical time of the season. Heavy thunder and angry-looking clouds promised to deluge the fields. The showers that fell, however, were only vagrant in character and scat-tered at long intervals of distance. Perfect temperature, with an abundance of sunshine has prevailed since.

tericd at long intervals of distance. Perfect temperature, with an abundance of sunshine has prevailed since.

Not a had report comes from any part of the Dailias territory. If Novembur furnishes an approximate dupilicate of October weather cotion picking will last until January in Northern Texas.

Dallas commercial travelers, who have recently made it a special duty to travel into the cotion fields for a radius of 100 miles around Dailas, report that in many fields the plant is so loaded down with new bolls that the stalks are almost breaking. Two or three more weeks of the present kind of weather will cause the most of these boils to open and add to the crop from one-fourth to one-third more cotion than had been estimated in September as the harvest yield. No rain is wanted, dry weather is the general desire.

A light frost followed by sunshine, would be a good thing, as the leaves and rank growth would be blighted and made to wither and fail, thus permitting the sunshine to penetrate to the lower bolls and assist the top crop and bottom crop in maturing.

R. S. Kimbrough of Mesquite says the crop already picked in his portion of Dallas County equals the yield of last season. Good weather for the next twenty to thirty days, he says, will make an enormous addition to the year's yield.

COTTON BEED AND OIL SITUATION. The cotton seed and cotton oil stuation is in far better shape for the mills than it was on October 1. The price of seeds has fallen from 18 and 19 per ton to an average of from $15 to 16, according to the distance from the mills. Prime crude cli. for October delivery, is in good demand, at 25 cents per gallon. Frime meal, for October delivery, bells readily at 19 to 11 per ton. Meal for October delivery is all soid up at most of the mills.

There is practically no October surplus on hand. The cause of this is largely that the mills started up about ten days earlier this year than last. The length of time that the mills will be run is uncertain; all depends on the outcome of the top crop of cotton. A small top crop would probably mean the closing of a majority of the Texas mills early in January; a heavy top crop, with a corresponding yield of seed, would mean an average milling season, with many mills running until April. ROW OVER LOAD OF WOOD. Fuel So Scarce That Neighbors Fight for It.

New York, Oct. 35.- Fuel has become at scarce in brooklyn that neighbors fight for the possession of it. Mrs. Leibig of No. 49 Court street asys that she bought a load of Court street anys that she bought a load of wood, but that she never got it and deciares that Mrs. Heldt, her neighbor, did get it. Mrs. Heldt admits that she got it. but anys that she paid for it. Coal cannot be bought for love or money, so nearly every one who can't afford to burn gas has turned to wood for fuel.

The other day Mrs. Leibig paid a 15 note for a big wagon load of old timbers and boards to a contracting firm. It dumped the old lumber in front of her house and a few minutes later a dapper looking man wearing a brown overcoat, a derby hat and a standard roller rang the door bell. Politely doffing his hat he inquired if Mrs. Leibig did not desire to have the wood cut up and put in her cellur.

Of course, she would, and a dollar was fixed as the compensation therefor. When Mrs. Leibig looked out of the window again the man with the brown overcoat was standing around and another man was busy with a saw and an ax. The brown-overcoated man walked scound the neighborhood while the other man worked, and among other places visited the home of Mrs. Heldt, so Mrs. Leibig declares, and that woman was seen to hand him out a kettle, and, perhaps, some money. Anyway, the kettle made many trips to a nearby gin mill, and when Mrs. Leibig waggested that the wood wasn't being cut up fast enough the obliging man in the brown overcoat put another man to work.

Toward night Mrs. Leibig discovered tuere was to more wood in the street neither. wood, but that she never got it and de-other man to work.

Toward night Mrs. Leibig discovered there was no more wood in the street, neither was there any in the ceilar. When she started an investiyation she found that it was in Mrs. Heid'ts house, and that the brown overcoated man had disappeared. His first employe was looking for $1.75, and the second one for $1.30, but neither one got it. UNION MUSICAL CLUB'S WORK. First Meeting Will Be Held Next
